Fig. S1. Apparatus used to study the effect of the spectral composition of light on growth and FAME production in N. gaditana. Cells were exposed to white LED light (center) or white LED light that passed through a filter (left). The filter (right) was a mixture of red and yellow pigments (4:1 ratio), and had broad absorption in the blue region of the spectrum (Fig. 1(b)).